DOUBLE VICTORY BRINGS JOY TO ALL THE FANS

In Strangest Games of All Orators Win Twice of Ponies
Cy Miller Slams Ball Over Left Fence, Bill Luby Hits Right Field for Homer, Joe Connor Muffs Four Easy Ones and Six Pitchers Are Worn Out—Score 16 to 14, Funny, Too.

"Best thing that ever happened outside of a circus," said the tired out fans as they beat it home to the beams and blue label last evening at 7:30 from Newfield Park after witnessing two of the weirdest games that a troupe of professionals could possibly engage in. And the Ponies were the weirder of the two, because they lost both contests, the first, 7-1 and the second, 16-14. All records for the year at Newfield were either smashed or equaled: Bridgeport won a double header; Cy Miller pushed the ball over the left field fence; Joe Connor muffed four of the easiest possibilities; Bill Luby hit the right field fence for a homer; each club used three pitchers in the second game; all the put outs on the Orator side, with the exception of one to Bill Ladd, were distributed among Sweeney, Bunyan and Koehler. The first game started at 2:35 and finished two hours later. After a wait of five minutes the second game was begun. When the last man was out the sun had sunk in Fairfield and the Ingersolls registered 7:10. But the fans were gladdened because the Orators won two games.

The first game was a cinch for the Orators. When a Pony got a base he was either picked off by Freddie Gibbs or caught, trying to steal, by Brad Koehler. Their lone run in this game came in the seventh. Connor beat out an infield hit and went to second when Ladd let Flynn's offering go through his legs, on which the Pony catcher romped to third and came home while Ladd was throwing. Koehler, who had been in the game since the first, made five errors in the first two innings while the Orators made but three hits, all of which combined to score four runs. Freddie Gibbs twirled a masterly game, while Greenwell who has always been a stumbling block to the locals was hit at will.

The second contest brought out groans before a grand outburst of laughter and enthusiasm. The Ponies took lead in the offerings of Elley Riley and Rube Pollard right off and piled up eight runs in the second session. This was the inning in which the two home run smashes were made. Bill Luby was the first to get in a hit. He was a soarer over Steinhauser's head which clipped the right field fence and hit the ball which had been originally placed in right field been there. Luby would now have been $50 the richer. Bill's drive sent two runners in ahead of him. Cy Miller, who had been in the Orators up in the second. The trade mark on the bat must have come in with the first hit. Ladd, who stood still and watched the pellet soar over the fence. This is the second time the twirl has pulled over the top of Woodruff of Holyoke doing it way back in 1903. Eight runs was a big lead to overcome, but the Orators stuck to their task, and by clever pickings aided by the wretched work of the Pony fielders a win was possible. Elley Riley started the going by hitting the visitors out in the first inning, though he hit a man and Waite connected for a single. The hit batsman was nailed at the plate on a fine throw by Bunyan of the single. Riley allowed four hits and three runs in the second, before Rube Pollard was sent in to stop the slaughter. Rube hit the first man that faced him, the next singled, a knifed and loved and then Bill Luby's wallop to the fence, all in all amounting to five runs off the genial Rube. He went along all right in the third, but allowed two hits in the fourth and gave two bases on balls, all of which gave the Ponies three more runs. Candy Kane was ranked from the recesses of the Orator bench and finished the game. Mr. Porray started to lob 'em up for Springfield but lasted three innings. When Sam McLean was called upon to assume the play. Sam was even worse, and then Greenwell, who had twirled the first contest and lost was asked to perform. Two hits were quiesced. The Orators can lay their claim to victory to an act of Providence in an injury to Chet Waite, who turned on his ankle in the sixth inning after making a two bagger. Joe Connor took his place in center field, furnishing excitement for the fans of the game. Two hits were knocked to Joseph while he played center, and were kindly muffed. Joe was rushed with all speed into right, where the Orators turned their hits and before the game was over Joe had let two more easy flies slip through his fingers. He was a scream as a fielder. The Orators by uphill work tied the score at 14-14 in the sixth inning. Kane then tightened up a bit, not a Pony crossing the plate the last three sessions. The locals were blanked in the seventh, but Joe Connor started the ninth by dropping Steinhauser's fly. Bunyan sacrificed. Ladd was safe on Barbour's wide throw to first. Ladd hit to Flynn who threw Hilt out at second. Miller's single into right scored Steinhauser while Connor's miff of Bunyan's fly scored Ladd. The scores:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
As the Clevelanders finally managed to win a game from the Highlanders yesterday, and as the Chicago White Sox were again beaten in Boston, New York and Chicago, billed to play in New York today, the American League race, The Philadelphia Athletics won another game from the Detroit tigers and took the lead for the first time this year. The Boston Red Sox, who are climbing rapidly, are now 27 points, or 21-3 games, behind the leaders. The results: Cleveland 4, New York 1. Philadelphia 3, Detroit 1. Boston, Chicago. St. Louis 1, Washington 1.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

The Giants won another ball from the St. Louis Browns yesterday by uphill playing and passed the .500 mark. The Pittsburghers trimmed the Bostonians in close contest, and as the Chicago Cubs easily took the measure of the Brooklynians there was no change in the relative percentage of the two leaders. The Philadelphia Phillies whitewashed the Cincinnati Reds, who seem to be gradually losing their grip on fourth position.

Connecticut League

The standing to date remains the same, as Holyoke, by another of those last inning rallies which have made her famous, won out over New Britain, while the Senators took the going hard in trimming New Haven in an eleven inning contest. The variety act of the day was right here in Bridgeport where the Orators took two from the Ponies, the second game going down in Connecticut League annals as the most farcical on record. Northampton still keeps its winning spurt, trimming the Authors by a ninth inning rally. The results:

LIVE BASE BALL TIPS

Senators and Orators will mix it up at Newfield this afternoon.

Pass Elley Kelley the sweet corn. Luck was with him again. He was saved from a black ball.

Poor Joe Connor! His dream last evening must have been of agony. Good night Joe.

Who said the Orators could not wallop the globe. The fans never spent such a hilarious afternoon and let it be added, evening.

Don't make any arrangements for Sunday, Aug. 22, just a week from this coming Sabbath. It's Downey day. Thomas Downey, the prize of the East Side, and the idol of the Cincinnati fans will stick out his chest around the green awad at Steeplechase on that afternoon.

Yesterday's second contest saw the downfall of two of Glastonbury's prizes, Sam McLean who has the prior claim, and Rube Pollard who is making a big effort to take that title away from him.

Miller's feat of jacking the Victor over the left field fence has been duplicated only on one other occasion, by Harry Woodruff, who played with Holyoke. Woodruff was a big husky, handsome young chap, who afterwards turned his attention to the stage, turning the minds of many a sweet young thing. The same year that Woodruff pulled off his stunt, Pop Foster almost did the act, but the ball hit the barbed wire top of the fence and bounded back into the field. The ball yesterday cleared the fence by over forty feet. A boy who was passing on Newfield avenue said it passed over his head landing ten feet in the garden on the other side of the street. The street is at least 30 feet wide. So be it, Cy Miller's hit goes down for the longest wallop ever made at Newfield!

Pitcher Greenwell who gets the credit of losing the first contest, will also have the second game chalked up against him. The Ponies were in the lead when he relieved McLean. Kane will be given credit for the Orator victory, thus saving Elley Kelly from a black mark on his record, which stands with five wins and no defeats.

That New Britain rowdy who started the riot in New Haven Saturday intends to sue the New Haven club for damages. He ought to thank his stars that he is living to-day to tell the story.

Jimmy Savage, the former Villanova player who played with Hartford long enough this season to help win a game from the Orators, has been notified by Secretary Brell of the National Commission that he is the property of the New York Americans. Jimmy is now waiting to hear from Boss Stallings.

The Orators are all ginger since Doc Bunyan has been appointed captain of the outfit. El Ladd gave up the job as he thought it ought to be the place of an infielder and not an outfielder who should handle the job.

Put this down in your record book: 26 of the 27 put outs on the Orator side of the score were distributed by the scores of 3-2. That they will be thought of as the best of the season, the last man up in the game, made the 27th out by flying to Ladd.

Beecher, something new as an umpire hailing from New Haven, was very slow in keeping the contest moving. Two hours for a 7-1 game is too long. The time in the second contest can be accounted for. Beecher is not an expert on balls and strikes.

Chet Waite made a perfect record in the second game, with four hits, out of four times up. Butch Steinhauser was not far behind with four hits and a wallop out of five trips. Butch also had a base on balls in this game.

Slats Sweeney could not seem to hold anything during the first game but was all to the Hol Chas in the second because of the many Pony sacrifice hits, on which he covered first on the throws. His three hits in the night cap all came when there were men on base. Five hits out of nine times up was his afternoon's work.

Maggett robbed Steinhauser of a sure three baser in the fifth inning of the first game. The Victor was on a line between right and center for the ball runner, when Maggett's glove hove in sight in front of it. The fans were not a bit scarce in applauding the feat, as at the time the bases were filled.

The Orators have a lay off Friday, watching Waterbury having been played as a part of the double header Sunday. This will give them a sufficient rest for the double bill with Holyoke next, Saturday.

RUELBACH'S RECORD

CHICAGO PITCHER HAS SCORED HIS 14TH STRAIGHT VICTORY AND IS IN FINE SHAPE.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—All Chicago is shouting to win for "Big Ed" Ruelbach to day the next game for Chicago and thereby establish a new world's record for consecutive victories at the present pitching distance. Ruelbach scored his 14th straight victory yesterday against the Brooklynians, equalling the record by Jack Chesbro of the New York Highlanders in 1904. He received a tremendous ovation as he walked from the field. The victory made his 15th out of the 19 games he has pitched and gives him a percentage of .789 indicating that he will lead the National League pitchers for the fourth successive year.

Ruelbach was never in finer shape than right now and the fans are predicting that he will win several more games before he is finally stopped. Some are even rash enough to hope that he will equal the record of 24 straight victories made by James McCormick of the Chicago team in 1890 when the distance from the pitcher's box to the plate was much shorter.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

(By Dick Barrett.)

The South Ends will put a black spot on the West Ends game Sunday.

Jack Gallagher takes quite an interest in the West Ends playing and wishes to get any where from $50 to $100 for the West Ends who will trim the South Ends next Sunday at the West Ends Diamond. B. S. for Gallagher.

The West End boys club would like to play the Clevers for $25, at any time.

Those Three strike outs by Frank of the West End Boys' club made Sunday almost lost the game.

Guess the St. Joseph Jr., could trim the "Gas Light" Morans. St. Joseph team again if they would stand for another game.

The Brookside Jr., would like to play the South Ends Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Flats. Answer through this paper.

Kling Reported Sold To Brooklyn Club

(Special from United Press.)

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Despite repeated statements of President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs that Catcher Kling would not be sold at any price, reports are current
